Dear Mr. Helms:

STAT
Dear Mr. Helms:

Thank you for your letter of October 20 nominating Miss [redacted] for the 1967 Federal Woman's Award. I understand the necessity for being discreet in enumerating Miss [redacted] accomplishments and I am certain that the briefing to which you referred can be arranged.

It was thoughtful of you to congratulate me on my new assignment. I appreciate your good wishes.

Sincerely,

Katie Loucheim
Chairman
Board of Trustees

FEDERAL WOMAN'S AWARD

CPYRIGHT

Named

Judges who will select six government career women to receive the seventh annual Federal Woman's Award were announced today by Mrs. Kate Loucheim, deputy assistant secretary of state for educational and cultural affairs and chairman of award's board of trustees.

The judges are Robert Manning, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, chairman; Mrs. Betsy Tatbot Blackwell, editor of Mademoiselle Magazine; Kenneth G. Crawford, columnist for Newsweek Magazine; Dr. Margaret Mary Kearney, educational director of WCAU-TV in Philadelphia and Dr. C. Easton Rothwell, president of Mills College in Oakland, Calif.

The annual Federal Woman's Award banquet will be held on March 7, 1967.

Nominations for the award were received between Aug. 25 and Oct. 31 by the board of trustees, which is an independent body having no connection with the government.

Candidates are nominated annually by heads of government departments and agencies on the basis of outstanding achievement in executive, professional, scientific or technical positions.

At the banquet, each winner will receive an engraved citation and a bracelet.

REMARKS:
I mentioned Mrs. Louchheim's letter and Colonel White's question about it to Mr. Bannerman. He feels that you or your representative should be in touch with the appropriate people who administer the Award and offer a briefing at their convenience. If you agree with this, we will answer Colonel White's question. Will you also let us know who would conduct such a briefing.
